Advice on Structured Investments

The financial markets are in unprecedented turmoil. The media has reported on how some customers have been affected by the collapse of Lehman Brothers. In particular, Lehman's bankruptcy has had an impact on certain structured investments that had been available in the market from many financial institutions for sometime now. These products were sold together with prospectuses outlining their features and risks. Customers are encouraged to constantly review their investments. If in doubt, customers are advised to contact their banks if they have any concerns.

Yours sincerely,

Ong-Ang Ai Boon, Mrs
Director
